

Treasuring the Riches of Our Christian Neighbour is an exciting possibility to deepen the mutual understanding and love among Christians. It takes place during the Week of Prayer for Christian Unity at a special service with the regional leaders of many of the churches Hertfordshire (among them Church of England Bishop Michael Beasley, Roman Catholic Bishop Paul McAleenan, Methodist District Chair David Chapman, Baptist Regional Minister Stephen Copson and URC Moderator Andrew Prasad).

Together with the church leaders we will be praying for the unity of Christians. But we will also be getting to know something more of the Redeemed Christian Church of God, a fast-growing Pentecostal church that has its roots in Nigeria. Last year we got to know the Coptic Orthodox Church. As we did then, this time too we will not only hear about this church, but we will experience something of their Spirit-filled style of worship. We hope it will enriching, enlightening and enjoyable.

The venue (Trinity Church, Park Lane, Knebworth, Hertfordshire SG3 6PD) is ideal. The premises belong to a joint United Reformed and Methodist church and are where a congregation of the Redeemed Christian Church of God meet for Sunday worship. The time (Tuesday 24 January 2017, 19:30) aims to be one when people can to gather during the Week of Prayer for Christian Unity.
